Profile Programmer, writer, and data analyst in training (through Google and Coursera), filled with curiosity and a strong determination to achieve set goals. I stand out for my learning ability, concentration, and, above all, in soft skills, such as resilience and emotional intelligence; as they have been the key to overcoming numerous challenges and moving forward.

Professional Experience Web programmer Freelance | Current
I've worked on several projects. The last one was called SBC Smart Business Cards, in which I worked as a Full Stack Developer and web designer. My responsibilities included designing and building the entire web app according to the client's needs, providing solutions and reality to the project. The purpose of the project was to create the equivalent of a 'LinkTree' for my client and her clients. Unfortunately, due to budget constraints, the project had to be put on hold. Another project will soon be showcased on Render. My projects are primarily developed using Python and C#, although I have no issue incorporating JS, as I believe I have a solid foundation in programming.

Entrepreneurship
Owner/Operator | 2018 - 2020

I learned a lot about time and resource management during this venture. I was able to enhance my discipline and commitment to others, as I knew I had to work in a timely manner even if I could afford not to. It was my duty to do so for my clients and for the well-being of my business.

Nintendo

Salesperson | 2013 - 2015 | | Supervisor | 2015 - 2018

My job was to visit different stores in my area, oversee sales, cleanliness, and the conduct of the staff in those stores, establish good relationships with the managers, let them know they could rely on me, introduce new items to the managers (like new spaces and exhibitions of the product or dynamics valid on the retail) for the , and ensure that everything was running smoothly in the area assigned to me.
